Mary:

This looks great. I agree that the reservation of rights language is not necessary at this time.

If you would please forward to Valerie, I would appreciate it.

Thanks.

Amy:

My comments are embedded in the draft email below. I tried not to make the tone too legal. One addition I decided not to make because I thought it was "too legal" was a sentence amounting to a reservation of rights. If there is further discussion on this point or we need to send a more formal letter, rather than an email, such language would probably be appropriate.

Let me know if you have any additional questions/comments before I send to Valerie. Thanks.

Mary:

Sorry that I forgot to attach the e-mail to my previous message to you.

Thanks for keeping me straight.

Valerie:

Mary Bigelow is reviewing this today and hopefully will be able to provide some guidance by tomorrow.
